Transmission TX – Sound Assistant and second Boom Operator – Doctors BBC1 series 16 / 17 90 Episodes

May 2014 - May 2015

Long running BBC 1 drama series Doctors working with various Sound Mixers and Boom Operators. I was one of the few staff members on a crew which changes on a weekly basis shooting three episodes per week long block, I was responsible for boom operating, maintaining the sound equipment, and ordering in consumables. It is important to work quickly in terms of rigging and problem solving, but also maintaining a high standard as the shooting schedule is often demanding,

Birmingham International Convention Centre – TechnicianAugust 2012 to 2014

Part of the in house technical team at a large renowned conference centre. It was my responsibility to build and operate the sound and AV equipment in the hall for the events according to the clients specifications, as well as send multiple audio and video feeds around the building and to corporate video companies. It was also important to be able to work with clients who were not technically minded to help solve problems they had with any equipment they brought in to interface with the house systems.

Birmingham Town Hall and Symphony Hall – TechnicianMarch 2012 to 2014

Working in many areas of the shows which come through the halls including, staging, stage management, follow spot operation, and sound engineering in the 1000 and 2200 capacity halls respectively. I also had to work with a the events which are run by the in house technical team, which range from classical music concerts to comedy and live debate. Many of the events included high profile speakers and personalities as well as internationally respected artists, some who I have been lucky enough to work with either on sound or as stage management included, the Chancellor George Osborne, Jools Holland, Jeremy Irons, the London Philharmonic Orchestra, the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra, Mark Watson and Adam Hall.

The Old Joint Stock Theatre – Technician

November 2011 to 2014

As part of a small theatre I was responsible for most of the shows which come in requiring a technician. I liaised with visiting theatre companies to help archive their technical goals in terms of AV, sound, and lighting. This included helping with hiring in equipment, lighting design, and advising if their plans were to ambitious for the theatre. I was also responsible for operating the lighting, sound, and helping build the set for many of the shows which came in including, musicals, comedians and speakers. As well as maintaining equipment I was also involved in advising on technical purchases, improvements, and installations in the theatre.

Birmingham Conservatoire – Studio and Halls Technician

September 2009–2010

My main role at the Conservatoire was to act as sound engineer for concerts in the two 500 and 250 seat halls at the venue, as well as providing in house support for conferences. Other tasks included concert and studio recordings, studio maintenance, taking studio bookings and talking with external hirers about their requirements. The venue whilst being an educational facility also had many other external events mainly in the classical or jazz genre, and it is often used by the BBC for radio broadcasts whom I worked alongside during their get ins and provided support whilst they used the in house recording facilities.
