SUMMARY

I started my career over 17 years ago at Tiffen Steadicam and have gone on to become a skilled and versatile Steadicam Operator - one of few who are comfortable working with the demands of both Drama and Commercial shooting as well as Live Television.

FULL BIO

I had a fascination with moving images ever since I was young and blew my savings on a VHS-C camcorder and started making short films with my family and friends. I learnt of the existence of Steadicam when I was 12, this was before the internet was ubiquitous, so started studying photos in books and behind the scenes video clips of the device in action and attempting to make my own from broken tripods and elastic suspensions... but the contraption never quite worked! I eventually splashed out some savings at 15 to buy a second-hand Steadicam JR, the JR was the first handheld camcorder stabilising system to be based on Steadicam technology and it gave me my first true taste of Steadicam.

After studying Broadcast Television Operations, I started my professional career over 17 years ago at Tiffen Steadicam working alongside the legendary Oscar-winning Steadicam Inventor, Garrett Brown. Whilst there, I became a Steadicam instructor teaching and assisting all over Europe for organisations such as YLE Television in Finland, DR (Danish Broadcasting Corporation), BBC Training and Development in the UK and Filmbase in Ireland. I developed a two day course format bringing the "Bronze" Steadicam training workshop to the UK and Europe for the first time. I was also heavily involved in the day to day running of Steadicam, preparing equipment, maintaining parts, giving film school demos, and liaising with operators providing technical support. In addition, I spent nearly two months at the Steadicam Facility in Glendale, California learning to build and service certain mechanical components of the rigs such as stages, gimbals, and the latest generation of arms.

After 4 years, I left to begin my freelance career as a Steadicam Operator. Since then, I've gained a large variety of credits; including the BAFTA and Emmy-nominated Channel 4 / Netflix comedy drama "The End of the Fing World"; music videos for artists such as The Vamps, McFly, Rag 'n' Bone Man, and Busted; and many live broadcasts for the BBC during the EU Referendum and subsequent General Election campaign.

I have credits spanning Drama, Commercials, Promos, and Live Television - one of few who can comfortably work in all the disciplines. I enjoy the unique challenges of all genres. My ultimate aim is to help deliver the vision of the DP and Director, whatever the challenge may be.

I own a top of the range Steadicam rig suitable for any professional HD Broadcast, Film or Digital Cinema camera.
